

Prevent birds from pooping on photovoltaic panels

Overview

Mesh screens, wire mesh, or netting can be strategically installed around solar panels to create a barrier that prevents birds from accessing the underside of the panels. Bird Droppings on the Panels: If you notice a lot of white or dark spots on the surface of your panels, birds are likely visiting often. Droppings block sunlight and lower energy output. Debris and Nesting Materials Under or Near Panels: Check for twigs, grass, feathers, or small sticks stuck under. This misperception can lead to attempted landings or collisions, resulting in injury or death for the birds and damage to the panels. Effective. It provides much-needed protection against birds as their droppings can accumulate on solar modules over time, blocking sunlight, and hence reducing the overall efficiency of panels. Bird-proofing measures, such as mesh barriers, spikes, and solar skirts, start from £50 per panel, saving homeowners thousands of pounds in.
