

Requirements for drilling holes for photovoltaic panels installed on roofs

Overview

The industry standard for solar panel post depth typically ranges from 4-8 feet, but here's the kicker: 42% of solar installation failures stem from improper foundation work according to a 2023 NREL study. Let's dig into what really determines how deep those holes need to be. When installing photovoltaic panels on one- and two-family homes, it's important to understand the requirements for access pathways and the requirements for setback from the ridge, which only apply to roofs with a slope greater than a 2-in-12 pitch. However, these penetrations are specifically designed to maintain your roof's. The process of solar panel installation involves drilling into your roof and making several adjustments that can effect its integrity and longevity.

About the Renewable Energy Ready Home Specifications Assumptions of the RERH Solar Photovoltaic Specification Builder and Specification Limitations
1.5 Document the solar resource potential at the designated array location
3.3 Install a conduit for the AC wire run from the designated inverter location to the electric service panel
4.2 Record the name and Web address of the electric utility service provider
5.1 Landscape Plan
5.2 Placement of non-array roof penetrations and structural building elements
Appendix A: RERH Labeling Guidance
Careful placement of roof penetrations will maximize the available roof space for and facilitate the eventual installation of the proposed array. If the proposed array is to be located on a roof, care must be taken to ensure that the proposed array location is not affected by typical plumbing or mechanical roof penetrations.
